ONEWEST PUBLISHING FILES SUIT AGAINST CMG WORLDWIDE, INC.

LOS ANGELES, CA (April 10, 2005) – Twenty years ago this month Andre de Dienes passed away. He devoted and committed his life to photography and is know as a master photographer throughout the world. His works with Nudes, Glamour, Fashion, Harlem, Native Americans, Paris, Budapest, and Mississippi rank him among great names such as Walker Evans, Edward Weston, Man Ray, Ruth Bernhard, Ansel Adams, Andre Kertesz and many other master photographers. He made his mark on different kinds of photography, bringing new meaning to documentary photography and as an art form.

Best know for discovering a beautiful young woman by the name of Norma Jeane Dougherty (Marilyn Monroe) and bringing her into the public eye; his estate still has to fight for his right in history as the estate of Marilyn Monroe tries to claim credit for his work.

On April 5, 2005 Onewest Publishing and the Estate of Andre de Dienes filed a claim in Federal Court against CMG Worldwide Inc., Anna Strasberg and Marilyn Monroe LLC for copyright infringement, common law unfair competition and tortuous interference with actual and prospective business relations. Marilyn's career started with photo images taken by Andre de Dienes, one would have to wonder what she would say today.

OneWest Publishing in Beverly Hills is rapidly becoming the place for fine art, fashion and glamour photography, representing notable photographers such as famed fashion and glamour photographer Ken Sax as well as the masterful Andre de Dienes, George Barris and up-and-coming fetish and music photographer Aaron Settipane.
